NF officially cleared of organizing Race Attacks

YET ANOTHER police investigation into racist attacks has cleared the National Front of any involvement. For months a "crack team" of detectives known as the Organised Racial Incident Squad have been trying to find evidence that racial incidents in East London are orchestrated by "extreme" political groups.

But no such evidence has come to light. So after six months of intensive – and expensive – work, including snooping on the National Front, the team is being disbanded.

After spending thousands of pounds in their investigations, the police found out exactly what NF News has said all along: Racial attacks are a social problem stemming from disputes between neighbours or the actions of frustrated individuals. They are not organized by anyone, particularly the National Front.

Although the team has been disbanded, a small group of its officers will move to nearby Newham to continue their work. As a police spokesman pointed out, 'this is because "most racial crime in the area stretching from Aldgate to Essex happens in Newham."

This is very interesting. The National Front has always maintained that racial tensions actually decrease when young people in an area are given the chance to work for a political solution to the failed multi-racist experiment by getting involved with the NF.

The fact that Newham is the worst area for White racial attacks lends support to this theory – for Newham also happens to be the one big area in East London without an active NF presence.

So it looks as though the best contribution the police could make to race relations in Britain would be to stop harrasing NF activists and leave us in peace to spread our ideas for a political solution to the multi-racist disaster: mutually agreed separation of the races and phased financially assisted repatriation.

The NF were, as usual, blamed for firebombing this Asian house. The culprits? Other Asians!

THE BATTLE FOR SEPARATION

MEANWHILE Newham's Asians have struck another blow against forced multi-racism in schools. They are demanding the designation of five schools in the borough for Muslim-only use.

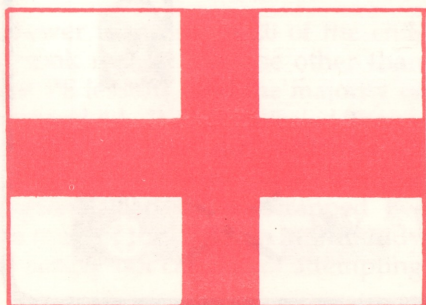

A top Asian teacher says that "this would meet Muslim needs and ease racial tension – since the council's multi-racial system has completely failed." Most White parents in Newham agree. They have been outraged recently by the education authority's decision to alter traditional school holidays in order to mark Asian religious festivals.

This is exactly the sort of clash which is inevitable if different races are forced to mix. It is a classic example of how multi-racist dogma creates racial hatred, where principled racialism would leave both sides to do their own thing in peace.

FIGHT FOR CHANGE

Mr. Ahmad, who is leading the fight for this change, is founder and head of the London School of Islamics in Forest Gate. This is one of 15 privately run Muslim schools now operating in England.

Such separate education facilities mark the beginning of the end of the evil hoax of a "multi-cultural society." White parents everywhere must support the Asians who are leading the way in their development. But it is also time for more of our people to follow the example of the Dewsbury parents and start to press for the same rights for Whites.

Remembrance Sunday The Real Target

WHY DID London's top cops try so hard to provoke a bloody riot at the National Front's Remembrance Day parade? The answer is very simple; they wanted violence and mayhem to break out on this solemn day so that they would have the excuse to get changes in the law which would further extend their oppressive powers to ban political demonstrations and all sorts of other large public gatherings.

Under the present Public Order Act the police have no power to ban traditional activities, such as the NF Remembrance Day parade. They can only use their vague Common Law powers, which if used unjustly (perish the thought!) could be challenged in the courts. Although the legal system is heavily weighted in favour of the police they are not satisfied with this. So they are pushing hard for more clear cut and sweeping powers.

ZIONIST LOBBY

The police hoped that serious disorder on the NF parade would convince MPs that the extra powers are needed. They would have the backing of the powerful Zionist Parliamentary, media and business lobby. These Zionists have been demanding a ban on the NF parade for many years, and will support any new law which would make this possible.

And Labour MPs, who are usually hostile to the police, would also support repressive new laws if they thought the NF was the main target.

In fact this is not the case. Of course the State's police want to get the NF thorn out of their side. But their real target is much more powerful and is protected by a wide range of pressure groups. We have seen this trick before - when the Yorkshire police tried out their idea of turning back demonstrators' coaches bound for the NF's anti-IRA march in Wakefield in 1983. Civil liberties groups refused to take up the NF's case, and when the tactic was used against miners during the coal strike it was too late to bring the police under control.

REAL TARGET

The real target this time is the Notting Hill Carnival. The police have wanted to ban this for several years, but have no right to do so because it is now considered traditional. And they dare not try to use their Common Law powers to stop it once it has started because (since this report is compiled under the restrictions imposed by the British Government's Race Relations Act, we are unable to complete this sentence). A formal ban would allow them to seal off the whole area and deal with people who objected while they were still in small groups.

The police hope to keep their real reason for wanting these extra powers kept a secret until they become law. This sly but steady move towards a totalitarian Police State must be exposed and resisted. The NF is opposed to all bans on any organization or activity, except those which support terrorism.

POLICE DUTY

The NF does not believe that the Black people who go to the Notting Hill Carnival should be in Britain, but while they are here they have the right to hold as many carnivals as they like! It is the duty of the police to ensure that law and order is maintained at any such gathering!

If the police now find that they are unable to do this then they should state publicly that the multi-racist experiment has failed and must be ended if Britain is to avoid a vicious spiral of violence and racial hatred.

They must not be allowed to use the chaos created by an unnatural and forcibly imposed multi-racist society as the excuse to jail young Whites and murder young Blacks while turning Britain into a Police State.

IMPORTANT NOTICE. The National Front is continually subject to interference with the post going to and from its main offices. In order to minimize the disruption this State action causes, you are asked to hand in correspondence for every NF operation whenever possible.

DEAR EDITOR

Abortion

Dear Sir,

I was most pleased to read the article entitled: Abortion - The Nationalist View in your excellent paper.

Although I wholeheartedly agree with most of the sentiments expressed, I believe it is worth re-emphasizing that life begins at the moment of conception. Therefore, abortion should never be allowed under any circumstances. The article quotes the unusual circumstances of rape and handicap. Dr. John Grady, a doctor largely concerned with obstetrics, in his excellent book, Abortion: Yes or No?, shows just how rare these eventualities are and explains what should be done short of abortion. When considering the "victim" of rape, we must never forget the infant - why should it be murdered for the vile actions of its father?

Pro-life Rally

With regard to handicapped babies - who are we to judge what their quality of life is to be? Many are able to live full and active lives as many thalidomide have shown. Every Nationalist should make a determined effort to halt the slaughter of these innocent infants. Abortion is the innocent

Notting Hill Carnival

Dear NF News,

I am very pleased with the new thinking and strategy of the National Front. At last we are making great steps forward with the new membership structure and community action etc.

But in issue 96 did you really have to print the letter about the Notting Hill Carnival? Everybody knows what to expect at this conservative organized riot. If I wanted to read about the carnival, I would have picked up some toilet paper like the BNP's British Nationalist, but I didn't expect to see it in the best and only true nationalist paper NF News. Keep up the excellent work!

European Co-ops

Dear Sir,

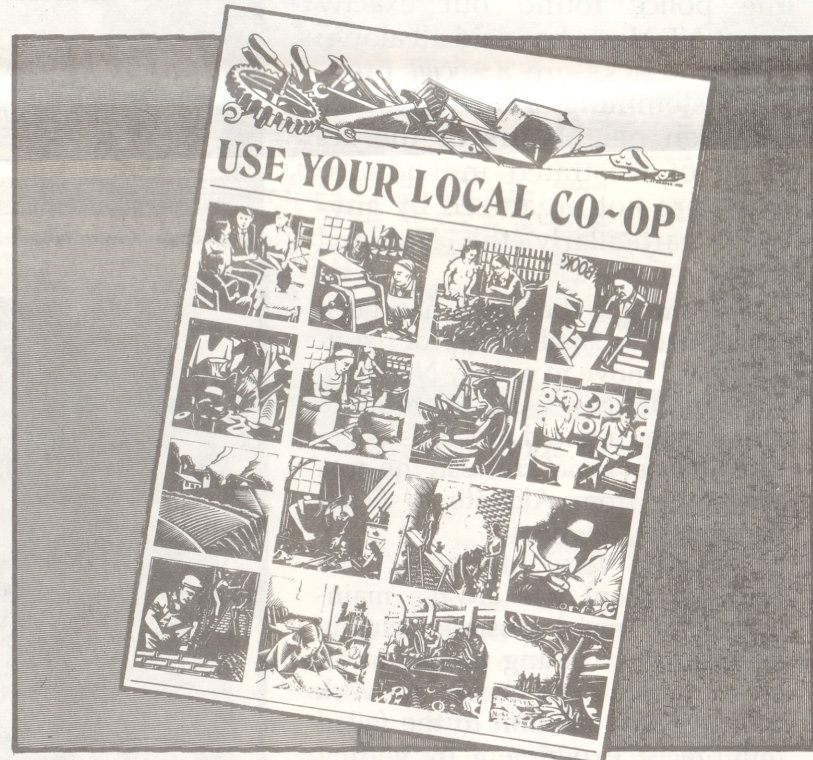

As a reader of both the "old" and the "new" NF News, I hope you will permit me to make a few comments.

The recent editions of the paper have been a definite improvement on previous ones. The idea of replacing the Union Flag with the old individual national flags, in the masthead, is thought provoking and probably justified. The NF Policy Statement (issue 91) was simply superb.

On industrial matters a book worth reading is The Co-operative Way - worker co-ops in France, Spain and Eastern Europe published by I.C.O.M. (ISBN 0 946776 01 6). Significantly the Basques saw in their co-operatives "a means of expressing their national aspirations." (Page 53).

However, there is, I feel, room for improvement. Perhaps there should be more

"news" and fewer "feature" articles more suited to a magazine like Nationalism Today. Let's have details about such subjects as imports and multinational companies. Give us facts and figures - and then

NATIONAL FRONT NEWS is Britain's only National Revolutionary newspaper. This makes it the only real alternative to the unholy alliance of capitalist media bosses and communist hack journalists which dominates the "British" press. If you want to read the truth about what is going on in Britain today, you'll only find it in NF News.

This is why capitalist newsagents chains refuse to stock it, and why Marxist thugs and the Tory-controlled police often try to stop NF News from being sold on the streets. So if you want to be sure of receiving Britain's only genuinely Nationalist newspaper every time it comes out, take out a subscription today.

RACIAL ATTACKS:
Stop this futile violence

LIBERATION STRUGGLE IN THE BALTIC

THE NATIONAL FRONT has launched the second stage of its big Race Campaign with a series of leaflets, each entitled 'Racial Attacks'.

These leaflets are being distributed in all parts of the country and are being sold for 10p each.

They contain a full and detailed account of the latest racial attacks in Britain and are a must-read for all National Front supporters.

They also contain a full and detailed account of the latest racial attacks in Britain and are a must-read for all National Front supporters.

FRONT-LINE ACTION

M.M.U. PUTS IN 100 PRESS COMPLAINTS SO FAR THIS YEAR

THE NF's Media Monitoring Unit has been forced to submit 100 complaints to the Press Council so far this year. Most of these concern blatant bias and downright lies in newspaper articles about the Movement. As usual, all of these have been rejected by this useless piece of window dressing, which exists to provide a futile safety valve to protect media hacks from public concern about their unrestrained power.

But now the NF has won a Press Complaint – albeit one with a difference. Our complaint was against The Star newspaper, for publishing an appallingly racist article which did nothing to help solve the problems of the multi-racist society created as a result, among other things, by mass media propaganda.

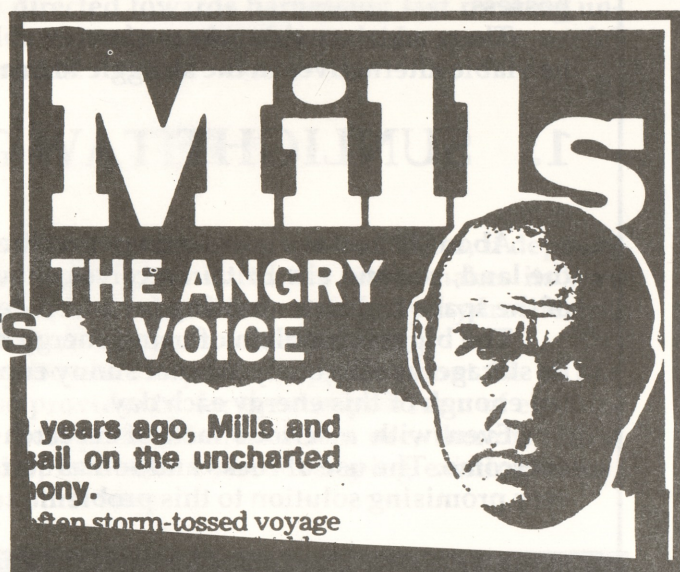

NF COMPLAINT

The NF complaint arose from the Star's comments about Winston Silcott, the man convicted of murdering PC Keith Blakelock during the Broadwater Farm riot. Now there is no doubt that Silcott is an unpleasant looking individual with a nasty reputation. But it is also a fact that he was convicted purely on the basis of a vague statement which he is alleged to have made to the police when arrested, and which he subsequently denied. There was no genuine evidence against him in court. His real trial was at the hands of the police and the press.

As part of that hysteria, the Star described Silcott as an "ape" and went on to blame the whole of the Black community for the crime. The NF complained to the Press Council that neither statement served the interests of any race. It was particularly hypocritical of the Star to use cheap racist sensationalism to sell newspapers when it regularly attacks NF News for simply denying the logic or success of the forcibly imposed multi-racist experiment.

The NF has made what is already a record number of complaints by any organization to the Press Council this year, yet this is the first to be upheld. This may be something to do with the fact that a Mr. Foot made exactly the same complaint on this matter. If it were not for this the Press Council would probably have arrogantly dismissed the NF's stand against the Star's racism, making it clear that the media and their apologists on the Press Council are no more interested in writing the truth about Black people than they are about White people and the NF.

The Mills column of the Star was so "mightily miffed" at being exposed as racist bigotry that it ignored the fact that it had been found guilty on behalf of the National Front. Instead it tried to characterize us with the sins regularly practiced by the egocentric hack Mills and his low-life paper.

All in all, the Star has had an unfortunate year under its accident prone editor Lloyd Turner. First it was successfully sued by Jeffrey Archer, now it has been found guilty of racism by the NF!

ENGLISH IMPERIALISM RED STYLE

THE CONTINUED progress of the NF in South Wales has prompted a frantic reaction from various neo-Marxist groups who have considered the Valleys their personal territory for several generations. So much so that the Reds have started to bus in English students to give them the overwhelming numbers they need before they dare to attack the local youths who are working to establish an effective NF/FFC presence in their own country.

On 17th October, two NF paper sellers went as usual to the pitch in Merthyr where they have sold regularly for seven months without incident. They found that twenty Red thugs had occupied the area and more were roaming around looking for trouble. As there is usually an average of four NF News sellers in Merthyr each Saturday, it says a lot for the confidence of our opponents that it needed 80 of them to be brought in, many from England, before they had the courage to abuse our sellers.

Rather than organize a full-scale confrontation in which local folk could get caught up, the NF/FFC waited until the outsiders had gone home before selling to people they knew. They also plan to build up sales door-to-door and in places young people meet, so that genuine Nationalist ideas can continue to spread in the area. And street sales will be resumed with a higher profile to show that Red terror tactics do not work with our militants.

As part of this dual approach, the unit has started to distribute its own anti-drugs leaflets to local youngsters, advertizing the paper sales as well as their Caerdydd PO Box. It looks as though NF News readers, as well as the people of South Wales, will be hearing more about developments in this area in future.

LIVERPOOL

P O BOX 24, BOOTLE, MERSEYSIDE, L20 2JP

LIVERPOOL are among the growing number of NF Supporters' units now developing the capability to produce their own publicity material. As well as working on a new local leaflet, they have now begun a campaign to wallpaper their city with eye-catching stickers bearing their local address and ten different designs. Several of the stickers are designed specifically for use in promising areas of Liverpool, but to make life difficult for our opponents NFN has no intention of saying where they are.

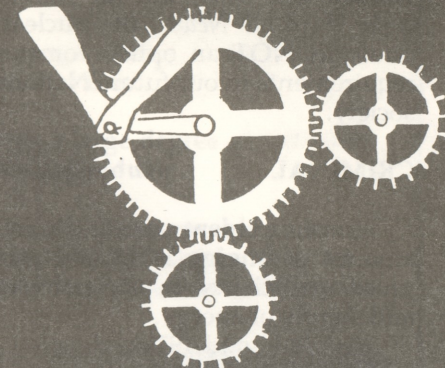

The NF activists know, local residents know, but if the Reds want to know, they'll have to start walking the streets. They should be good at that!

HOT on the tail of Liverpool's local sticker drive come their neighbouring unit, Sefton. This cracking sticker is in red and black and is in tough self-adhesive plastic.

WHAT IS TO BE DONE?

THIS COLUMN is specially designed to keep all NF officials well informed of forthcoming activities and to remind them of what needs to be done over the next two weeks.

All NF officials and activists must therefore make it a top priority to read this column carefully each issue, and then to act on the information.

* RACE CAMPAIGN. Phase 2. Leaflet areas already covered with the Far-rakhan leaflet with the follow-up against racial attacks. Continue to hit new areas with the first leaflet until stocks run out, then switch to the new one. Send out press statements about the second stage of the campaign with samples of both leaflets and this and the last NFN.

* WANTED: The old Unemployment and General Policy tape produced several years ago by the E&T Dept. Check if your unit has a copy. If so, please hand it in on the next lit. run, or send by Recorded Delivery to PO Box 57.

* PRESS RELATIONS. Check that your list of names and numbers of individual journalists is up to date. Even hostile individuals respond to a personal approach, especially if you can offer them the occasional good story without them having to do any work. Building up such relationships are the key which can open the door to passably fair treatment, especially in local papers. Getting out of the ghetto takes work!

* OPPORTUNITY IN AMERICA. Nationalist family needs young au pair/ nursing care assistant for work in America. Good accommodation, etc in return for part-time work. Other work readily available. Chance of a lifetime, with the opportunity to meet with various brands of American nationalist. For more information, write with brief details direct to: PO Box 16007, Alexandria, VA22302, USA.

* WHAT DO YOU THINK? The Propaganda Dept. needs to have more feed-back, from committees as well as ordinary readers. Let us have more reports on how new NF publicity material goes down in your area. What changes would you like to see? What subjects do you think would be effective in the future? All opinions and constructive criticisms are more than welcome at PO Box 41.

* REGIONAL ANSWER PHONES. These are essential for the efficient collection of the maximum number of "follow ups." The best value machine on the market is the BT Robin at £78.95 from Argos superstores. If there is not one in your area, contact Admin. to buy it for you and deliver it on the next lit. run.

Following the major feature in our last issue, "Under the shadow of Doom", we now take a look at the available alternatives to nuclear power. Although £300 million pounds is currently spent on researching this dangerous and secretive form of energy, a paltry £14 million is spent on researching and developing safe, natural, non-polluting and renewable forms of energy. This appalling situation can only be explained as the work of immensely powerful vested interests in the nuclear industry, especially when it is realized that the known supplies of uranium throughout the entire world are only expected to last for another 60 years or so.

THE ENERGY CRISIS

The world is facing an energy crisis. This will become more and more acute in time and will begin to affect our daily lives. Solutions must be found now!

In the British Isles, coal stocks are expected to last for a further 300 years at the current rate of consumption. But the coal industry is being torn apart by Thatcher's short term 'profitability' mentality. As devastation sweeps through the coal industry, as mines close down, the deep but rich reserves of coal that have become "unprofitable" to mine are lost forever. Taking into account present economic policies, we can not realistically expect British coal reserves to last anything like 300 years because Thatcher is scuppering them.

LIMITED

Oil and gas account for over 70% of all our delivered energy, but our reserves are already very limited. North Sea Oil production has already peaked about half of its known recoverable reserves. Gas reserves are only expected to last for about 30 years.

This is the sobering outline of the situation in Britain today, and it reflects the growing energy crisis throughout the world.

Solutions must be found and worked out now, but as shown in issue 98 of NF News, the nuclear industry is NOT an option for energy requirements in our future Nationalist society.

CRIMINAL

In our present society a criminal amount of energy is wasted due to gross inefficiency in the conversion and supply of energy.

In the mid-1970s detailed research revealed that only about 40% of released energy was actually providing a useful service such as heating, lighting and the running of industry. The remaining 60% of energy was, and most of it still is, lost due to inefficiency in conversion and supply. About 30% of primary energy is lost as waste heat when converted to electricity and fuels such as petrol and diesel.

The remainder, which adds up to more than a third of all our delivered energy, is lost due to waste in badly insulated buildings, and over-consumption in inefficient vehicles and appliances.

The cornerstones of our future energy requirements will be energy efficient, the exploitation of the renewable and non-polluting sources of energy that the world is blessed with, and the recycling of usable waste.

The Wind Energy Group (WEG) wind farm at Altamont Pass, California.

A POW

THE OPTIONS

The British Isles are rich in renewable energy sources, but we have hardly begun to use them or even think about using them. All of these natural and renewable forms of energy are being successfully used throughout the world, mostly in the non-industrialized world, but now here are they being exploited to anything like the potential that they possess.

There are six main sources of renewable energy which have proven to be viable alternatives in the struggle to beat the energy crisis.

1. SUNLIGHT

About 70% of the sun's energy that the earth receives is absorbed into the land, sea and air. Britain receives enough from the sun to provide all of the space and water heating for a well designed house.

The biggest problem of using energy directly tapped from sunlight is its storage, as obviously it is not sunny enough in Britain all year round to tap enough of this energy each day.

Even with a serious lack of research funds, this problem is being overcome. The use of rocks and soil as storage materials is proving to be a very promising solution to this problem.

2. WIND AND WAVES

Wind and wave power is a form of solar energy. High and low pressures, which make the air move, are a direct result of the earth's surface being heated by the sun. The wind then causes waves to whip up in our seas and oceans.

The wind has been tapped as a source of energy for thousands of years and official research has indicated that about 20% of our current energy requirements could be recovered from onshore winds, and three times as much from our offshore winds.

The useful thing about wind converted energy is that in winter, when the energy demand is at its peak, our winds are in their strongest and most persistent cycle.

Being a collection of islands, we are well placed to tap the massive amounts of energy contained in our waves.

Unfortunately, research and data on wave power is scant, but even at the present time, the lowest estimates based upon the available data, show that wave energy could supply one fifth of our current electricity requirements.

Once again, when energy needs are at their greatest during the winter months, wave power is at its peak.

3. THE TIDES

Tidal power is primarily due to the position of the moon and its

The main category of involvement in the NF is NF News Supporter. These are the people whose contributions and activity give them the right to run local units and to sit on local committees. NF Supporter status is also an essential stepping stone to being accepted as a Candidate Cadre and earning a say in the direction of the organization nationally.

So while the contributions of FOM's are very important, it is the NF Supporters who really make things tick. So don't get left out - get involved!

Supporters pledge to pay dues of £4 per month, for which they receive 5 copies of each issue of this paper (usually fortnightly). These they distribute as they wish, but if they sell them they may keep the money to help pay their dues.

Would-be NF Supporters already in touch with a local unit should pay their dues direct to the treasurer, in return for their membership card, details of activities and papers. Those who are not should fill and send this form.

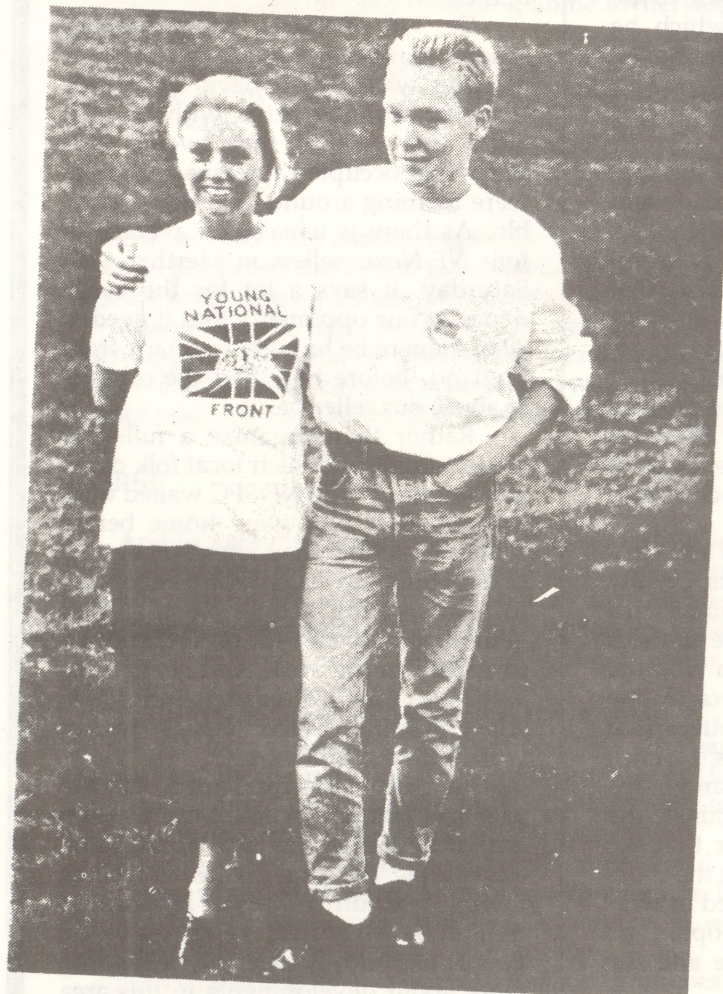

I agree to pay my dues of £4 per month. I have made my first payment by Post Office Transcash or I will pay by Standing Order and have sent the form on the right to my bank. (Delete as applicable).

gravitational pull, but also relies on the sun and the rotation of the earth. The rise and fall of the tides follow a regular and totally predictable pattern.

The effect of bays, estuaries and straits that impede tidal flow, amplify tidal effects enormously, and in these circumstances a large amount of energy can be extracted using turbines.

There are several excellent tidal sites in Britain, the best known being the Severn Estuary, which is the second highest tidal range in the world. The total potential for tidal power in this country is around one fifth of our current electricity demand.

Research must also be directed towards harnessing fast running underwater currents which, in theory, could also provide a very useful contribution to our energy needs.

4. RUNNING WATER

As the sun evaporates water from the sea, rivers and lakes, it deposits it in the form of rain upon higher ground. As the water makes its way back to the sea in rivers, it can be turned into energy by hydro-electric installations which, as with tidal energy, involve turbines.

At the present time, hydro-electric power supplies about 2% of our electric requirements. It also provides by far the cheapest form of electricity. Although many of the best potential sites are in use, there is still a large amount of room for improvement by redeveloping existing dams, and developing a number of other sites.

5. GEOTHERMAL HEAT

Geothermal heat derives from the earth's core, and can be extracted by pumping out geothermically heated water, or by pressurizing water through deliberately fractured rock to be harnessed at the surface.

Fantastic amounts of heat are contained in the upper 10 kilometres of the earth's crust, the depth accessible with current drilling technology. Within these top 10 kilometres in Britain is enough heat at any one time to meet all of our energy requirements for possibly thousands of years.

6. BIOMASS

Biomass is another form of solar energy. The term is used to describe the energy contained in material from living things, such as wood for instance. When wood is burned the sun's energy contained within the wood is released, producing heat and light.

Transport fuels can easily be produced from certain forms of biomass, and in some countries like Brazil, such fuels are already widely used. Two million vehicles run on alcohol produced from fermenting sugar from cane, and a further 8 million vehicles run on gasohol, a blend of alcohol and unleaded petrol. Other biomass fuels already used for transport include vegetable oil (used instead of diesel) and methane gas.

Biomass fuels can also be used in industry and could soon become increasingly attractive in Britain, as they did in Brazil the last time that international oil prices shot up.

THE SANE ANSWER

There are many attractive qualities of renewable energy that we have not mentioned.

Although the case for renewable energy gets virtually no coverage in the British Isles or anywhere in Europe, an E.E.C. poll in 1983 found that two thirds of those questioned chose either renewable energy and/or greater efficiency as their solution to the energy crisis. Why? Because it is commonsense!

- * Renewable energy does not cause pollution.
- * Renewable energy can in theory provide self-sufficiency in energy for every country in the world.
- * Renewable energy, due to its diversity and range of size, is very flexible and could replace subservience to a centralized National Grid.
- * Renewable energy could in theory also provide a large degree of self-sufficiency in energy for communities, families and even individuals.

So it can be seen that, quite apart from the fact that renewable forms of energy provide a far superior form of energy production and supply, they are a fundamental necessity in giving back people their real freedoms within the structure of a truly free society.

The British
Establishment?

TAKE NO PRISONERS!

This occasional column is a new feature. It aims to give our readers the chance to publicize awkward facts and nasty little scandals which the System would rather no-one heard about.

So what does your MP do with his pet kangaroo? How does a big local construction firm get such favourable treatment from the council planning department? If you've come across a System flunkey's guilty secret, we think people should be told!

BARB-AROUS

The Home Office hacks in charge of prison security have a very strange way of buying barbed wire to surround their overcrowded prisons. Instead of nipping down to their local hardware shop and buying a few rolls of your common or garden fence British-made stuff, they send off unmarked vans to Hull docks to pick up stocks of imported wire at dead of night.

Why the efforts to keep this a secret? Are they really so worried about being accused of putting British barbed wire makers out of a job? No, it's stranger than that. The imports are a particularly vicious kind of razor wire, designed to chop bits off over-athletic prisoners, instead of just snaring them in a prickly tangle.

So what's wrong with that you ask. After all, decent NFN readers want to be able to sleep safe in their beds at night, secure in the knowledge that murderers, rapists and City swindlers are safely locked away. Yes, but the West German company which makes the razor wire used by the Home Office round our prisons did a roaring trade a few years back, supplying the same product to the forced labour prisons, such as Auschwitz, erected by one A. Hitler.

It's a good job they don't have to de-louse the clothes of newly arrested merchant bankers, or the wailing would drive us all up the wall – but that's several other stories.

AND BARBARIC

The government has ignored the findings of its own Farm Animal Welfare Council and decided not to take steps against the barbaric practice of ritual slaughter of animals. The FAWC attacked the method, which involves cutting the throats of hundreds of thousands of animals each year, letting them bleed to death without prior stunning.

The FAWC found that this results in "pain, suffering and distress" far beyond that which is acceptable even in the cruel world of industrial agriculture. The Council therefore called for ritual slaughter to be banned within three years, and demanded that in the meantime all meat from animals and poultry killed by ritual slaughter should be clearly labelled as such.

But the government has rejected these recommendations, bowing to pressure from immigrant groups, particularly the powerful Jewish lobby, and from wealthy meat export companies.

As Nationalists, we do not claim the right to interfere in what other peoples do in their own countries. But we do demand that foreigners living in our land should respect our standards and traditions – all of which condemn ritual slaughter without stunning as barbaric and unacceptable.

Surveys show that the vast majority of the British peoples are revolted by ritual slaughter, but how many know that they may be unwittingly buying kosher meat and subsidizing this vile cruelty with every traditional Sunday roast?

Because Jews only eat the front half of all the countless thousands of cattle slowly bled to death by their barbaric method of slaughter. The cuts from the rear quarters, along with any meat deemed unfit for their consumption, find their way into the general meat trade – and onto the dinner tables of the wealthier elements of Tory Britain who can still afford roast beef and steak.

This is only possible because so few people know about it. But it would only take a few people who are prepared to speak out to change all that. And if butchers found that they couldn't sell kosher meat to gentiles, the price would rise so much that only a few people with the salaries of merchant bankers (the ones not in jail), could afford the luxury of the torture of defenceless animals.

So when you're next in the butcher's, just ask, in a loud voice, if he ever buys in the rejects of kosher cruelty. And if he does, walk out – but only after telling everyone else in the shop why. But don't go into too much gory detail. Some old lady might faint, or some-one else might come back and put a brick through the window on a night when you don't have an alibi!

HOME AFFAIRS

"The house is a basic need of both the individual and the family. Therefore, it should not be owned by others. There is no freedom for a man who lives in another's house, whether he pays rent or not." This noble sentiment, expressed by the thinker Muammar Qathafi, reflects one of Man's basic aspirations and fundamental rights – to determine his destiny within the confines of his community, to control his own life.

The ideal of individual ownership of the home, and of the means of production, has also been well stated in the homegrown British political tradition of Distributism established by G.K. Chesterton and Hilaire Belloc.

Rhetoric based on this line of thought is often expressed by the Tory government – especially before elections – because they know it is what people want. It is Natural Law.

The Tories re-election was helped immensely by Thatcher's election promise of wider home ownership, and their carrot on a stick antics of selling council homes to tenants.

THE REAL WORLD

But back in the real world, the truth of the matter is that Thatcher will not, and cannot, fulfill her election pledge. For the fact is that while a number of present council dwellers may be in the process of buying their homes from the local authorities, an ever-increasing number of people, and families, are finding themselves homeless. In many towns and cities the problem is already chronic, and it will not take long before this situation becomes widespread and impossible to cope with.

And there is nothing that Thatcher, or the Capitalist system which she serves, can do about it.

FINANCIAL SYSTEM

The root of the problem lies in their total reliance on the world financial system – a system based upon Debt Finance. The reality is that the British government, together with nearly every other government in the world, is heavily in debt to the Banks.

It has even got to the stage where the countries of the affluent West are finding great difficulty in paying off the mounting interest charges, let alone repaying the original loans. The problem of the soaring U.S. debt, for example, was the key factor in the October '87 Stock Exchange crash.

MEDICINE

Thatcher's brand of monetarist medicine demands that she tries not to borrow any more money and pays back Britain's debt, eliminating the inflation that goes with it. Yet she has not only got the diagnosis wrong, but she is applying the wrong treatment into the bargain.

The real answer is not just to stop borrowing money from the Banks for the time being. It is for the government to reassert its right to issue the nation's credit interest free as it is needed by the economy. And far from struggling to "repay" the Banks, it should be pointed out that they created the bulk of the money they loaned out of nothing, by entries on ledgers or computer records. For the Banks to ask to be repaid in real wealth, with interest, is quite simply the biggest and longest running fraud which the world has ever seen. But as a creature of the Banks, Thatcher cannot propose this only real cure. So instead we are subjected to Cuts and more Cuts. Enough money is raised through income tax and North Sea oil to pay for the basic vital services deemed necessary to avoid massive social conflict and potential revolution. But there is certainly not enough cash around to make the Thatcher vision of ever-widening home ownership any more than an election pipedream.

For unconquered inflation means that house prices go up. And Cuts mean that more people end up on the unemployment scrapheap, or, if they're 'lucky', on a low wage.

RISING PRICES

House prices are continuing to rise. A leading Building Society, The Halifax, recently predicted that house prices nationally will rise by 15% over the next year. In some areas, the figure has been as much as 26% over the last 12 months.

Coupled with this, we have the massive Cuts and financial starvation in every aspect of economic and social spending. Millions on the dole, millions more receiving abysmal wages for a hard week's work, or for part-time jobs. They cannot afford to buy the basic necessities of civilized existence, let alone a house.

WORSE

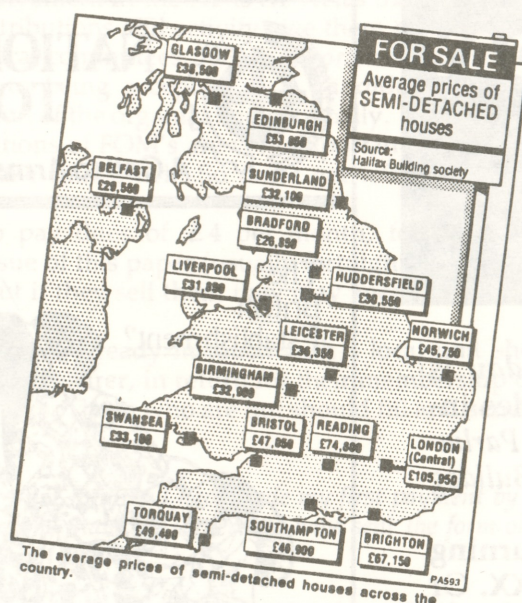

And to make matters worse, the Cuts mean that local authorities do not have the money to build new homes or even to renovate their existing stock. So council housing stocks are steadily depleted as present dwellers jump at Thatcher's election-inspired generosity, buying their houses at ridiculously cheap prices.

With no new council houses being built in any number, the waiting lists grow longer and longer.

But unfortunately, it doesn't even end there. A rapidly growing number of people are being forced to default on their mortgages and have their homes repossessed by the parasitic financial institutions. Thousands more cannot even cope with council rents, even if they claw their way to the top of the waiting list and get a roof over their heads in the first place.

Unable to pay, or to cope with the pressure and hopelessness of the situation, they soon find themselves trying to compete in the modern rat race for slummy bedsits or a new Bed & Breakfast every six weeks. And there's not even enough of these to go round.

So yet another of Thatcher's election promises comes to nothing in the horrific reality of the System she represents.

HOME AFFAIRS

LEGALIZED 'CONSPIRACY TO MURDER'

BRITAIN'S long and honourable history of providing a safe haven for political refugees from abroad, provided that they obey British law while here, is under fierce attack by the Home Office.

At present, any foreign power seeking to extradite citizens who have fled to Britain has to persuade a British court that there is at least a prima facie case against them – in other words, there has to be some evidence that they have committed a real crime, rather than simply opposing their government by peaceful political means.

But a clause in the Criminal Justice

Bill would allow extradition in some cases to be approved by ministers, without any evidence having to be presented to a court. It is proposed that parliament (in other words the biggest group there – some 350 individuals of a particular political bent) would have the right to decide on a list of countries whose standards of justice are "acceptable."

So a Tory government would happily send refugees back to thuggish right-wing dictatorships, and a Labour one would leap at the chance of getting rid of anti-communist East Europeans. And both would be delighted to send back Palestinians to be tortured and beaten to death in Israel, or Third Position nationalists to "commit suicide" in prison in Italy.

If this repressive change goes ahead, NF News believes that ministers who extradite innocent individuals who die as a result should be held personally responsible for their murder.

DHSS INFO TO BE PRIVATIZED

THE GOVERNMENT aims to centralize employment, National Insurance and social security information on every individual in the country in one massive computer data base in a scheme due to begin in 1989.

In some ways this makes sense, it will be much more efficient and will cut fraud. But there are several big questions to be answered:

Why is the government so keen to spend £1.6 billion to stop social security fraud, when tax evasion by big companies and the super-rich costs the country at least fifty times more than the little fiddles carried out by the poor?

Why is the contract to set the system up over five years almost certain to go to one of two American companies, the Computer Science Corporation or Electronic Data Systems, rather than to a British firm?

Is the decision to privatize the collection and use of DHSS records just the first step in a drive to privatize the whole system, including contributions and payments?

Does a nation which can even consider handing over its weakest citizens to the mercies of profit hungry foreign companies really have the right to call itself "civilized"?

GET OUT THE CANDLES

THE GOVERNMENT is sabotaging the power manufacturing industry, risking blackouts through electricity shortages, and further undermining Britain's economic independence – all in order to make it easy to privatize the Electricity Supply Industry. The alarming facts are contained in an appeal to the TUC by the joint union committee of electricity plant manufacturers NEI Parsons.

Demand for electricity is rising steadily, but in spite of distant plans for two new coal fired power stations at West Burton and Fawley, nothing is being done to meet this demand. As a result last winter there had to be voltage reductions and even emergency load management operations. And more and more electricity is having to be imported from France through the cross Channel link.

CRISIS

Yet while a crisis in our power supply looms closer, the highly skilled workforce of the power manufacturing industry is being continually cut back. This year alone, 700 jobs have gone at NEI Parsons on Tyneside (on top of 850 last year) and 600 at Babcock Power.

Even the two planned plants could be scrapped in order to pave the way for quick and profitable privatization under Thatcher's short-sighted asset stripping programme. According to the Financial Times:

"The further possibility is that the Treasury will seek to block CEBG power station orders so that the privatised electricity industry will not be burdened with the decisions of the past and – more importantly – the industry will be sold with the minimum of capital actually committed."

It is also likely that the privatized industry will seek to boost profits at the expense of jobs and Britain's economic independence by buying new, nuclear plants from multi-national giants rather than British companies. This would also widen our balance of trade deficit by several billion pounds a year.

All these dangers could be avoided by a simple government commitment to just eight new much-needed coal fired power stations, which would also safeguard jobs in the mining industry. Following the announcement of electricity price rises double the rate of inflation, as well as massive profits, there is certainly the money for this.

But both the power workers and the miners have given the Tories a bloody nose in the past. It seems that Thatcher's desire for revenge has blinded her to the long-term needs of our nation. And the bills paid by manufacturing industry and the public will help to fatten City sharks, instead of creating jobs and new plant.

The years of suicidal damage caused by such 19th century class war ideas are the best justification of all for the National Front's call for a Third Position above the hatreds of capitalism and statist socialism.

Suffer little children

CHILDREN in our decaying cities are heading for an early grave. Many are less fit than the average 60 year old and some youngsters already have heart disease. These are the frightening findings of a secret study carried out at Salford University, where 175 local school kids were tested for their general health, and for heart disease.

The confidential file is now in the hands of Salford education authority. It was not supposed to become public knowledge, but a conscientious scientist leaked the information.

The boys tested were shorter and the girls fatter than is usual for their age. Electronic examination detected early coronary heart disease in some of them.

Fewer than one in 20 of the children took regular exercise other than school PE lessons, and the majority of them smoked. It was revealed that a one-and-a-half mile run, which is recognized as a simple field test for youngsters, had to be scrapped because most of the children in the study were simply not capable of attempting it.

JUST AS BAD

Similar studies have taken place in cities such as Glasgow and Belfast, and the results were just as bad. As the Biological Science lecturer at Salford University said soon after the report was leaked:

"The average old age pensioner is fitter than most of those we saw. Their diet is poor – it seems to be chips with everything – and their environment is poor. It's difficult to get much exercise if you live in a tower block, there's nowhere for kids to play."

So it's not only the workers who suffer in Thatcher's evil capitalist Britain, it's our children as well. Forced to live in a spiral of low pay or dole, parents find themselves unable to feed their children as they should be fed. Forced to live in damp crumbling houses or inhuman tower blocks, they find that a healthy environment is generally reserved for the rich. It's no wonder that British kids find themselves with heart disease and God knows what else.

Suffer little children; but your time will come. We'll make sure of it.

A Third Way Beyond Capitalism and Communism

THE POLITICIANS MUST GO!

ON November 15th, 1985, the extreme right-wing Thatcherite regime committed one of its greatest acts of treachery. By signing the Anglo-Irish Agreement, it severed the once cherished Union between Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

Thatcher discounted forever the sacrifice Ulstermen made during the two European Brothers' Wars, particularly at the Somme. All the suffering that Ulster has faced since 1969: the bombs, the destruction, the murder of our people and members of the security forces mattered for nothing.

On that fateful day, Ulster was handed over to its greatest enemy and the harbourer of many of our people's murderers: the imperialist government of Eire. All this, despite the speeches that Thatcher and her cronies have made in the past saying that Ulster "was not up for grabs".

The people of Ulster — an integral part of the British Family of Nations — were not consulted beforehand and have not been since. Thatcher, for all her strong words about terrorism, has given in to it.

Notwithstanding American interference, the Anglo-Irish Agreement can be directly related to the Brighton bombing. This brought home to Thatcher the reality of our war situation. It forced her to ditch Ulster.

From that date, Westminster has continued its policy of pushing Ulster down the road to Dublin rule. And tragically, for the people of Ulster, our politicians have failed miserably to defend the "Agreement". The blame lies firmly at the feet of the Unionist "leaders". They have been in control of our destiny. All they have managed to do is to wander aimlessly around in circles. Or fight amongst themselves over how strong the protest measures should be.

SECTARIAN RANTINGS

While they are doing this, our enemies — within and without — are undermining our position even further. The vast majority of people on the Mainland are kept unaware of the conflict in Ulster by the media. Or they are fed up to the back teeth by the antics and sectarian rantings of Ian "fight to the death" Paisley and Jim "let's not offend anyone" Molyneux.

Our case is going by default!

Since Thatcher signed our liberties away, the Ulster people have shown their opposition to, and their willingness to do battle against, the "Agreement". One only has to look at the turnout at the mass rallies in 1985 and 1986. Or the 418,000 plus who voted against the "Agreement" in the mini-election of January 1986. And what about the Day of Action — on March 3rd 1986 — which brought Ulster to a standstill?

Despite all this, the Unionist 'leadership' has failed to deliver on its promises. They have not made Ulster ungovernable. Aided and abetted by the Fur Coat Brigade they have continually stalled over the Campaign of Civil Disobedience.

The Unionist politicians have also shot down several sets of proposals which would have been the death blow to the Anglo-Irish Agreement.

PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT

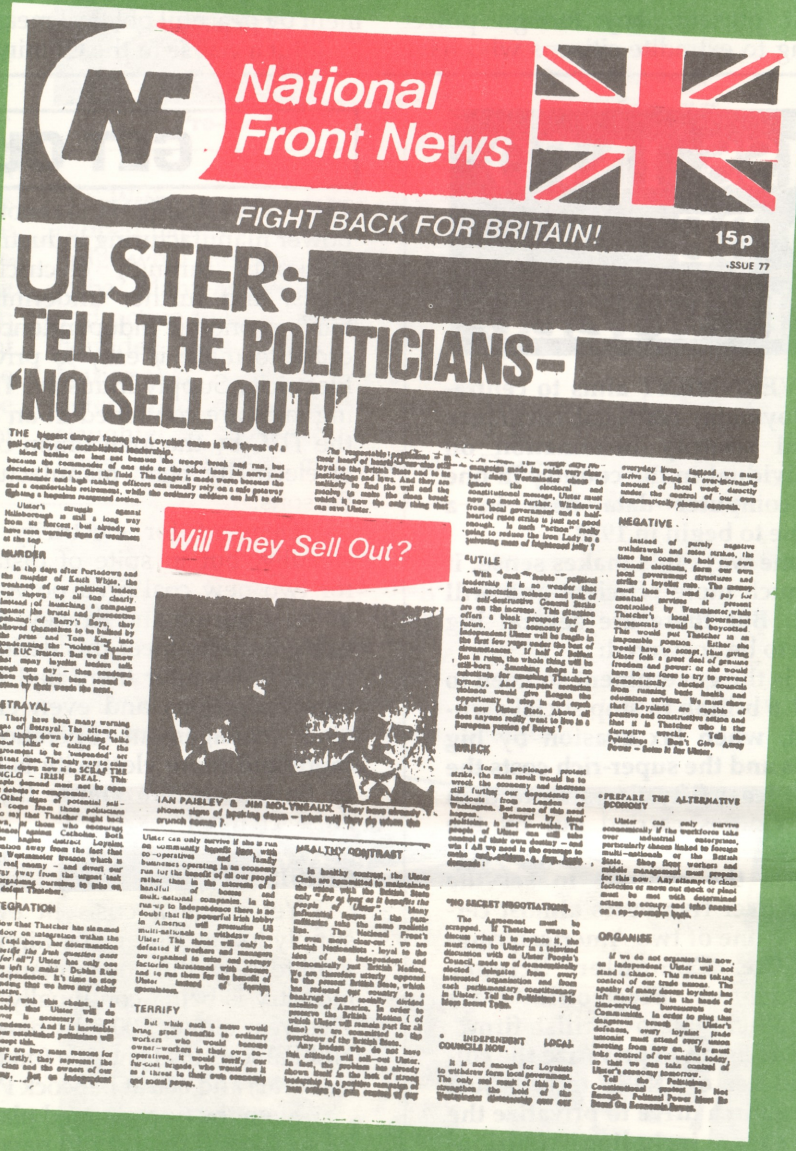

Take, for example, the Ulster Clubs proposals, for a Central Co-ordinating Committee, which would have revived the flagging protest campaign and could have acted as a Provisional Government. What about the ideas proposed by National Front News for taking control of Ulster?

Both schemes were rejected by the Unionists. Indeed, Paisley and Molyneux are now happy to sit down and engage in "talks about talks" with direct ruler, Tom King!

But times — and attitudes — are changing. The failure of the DUP/OUT clique is forcing Ulster folk to think again. Growing numbers are coming to realize that political independence is our only hope. Letters to this effect are appearing with greater frequency in local and national papers. Support for Independence is growing. More and more people realize that our land will be more secure under our control, and not in the hands of Westminster traitors, Dublin imperialists and the self-seeking Unionist politicians.

Devolution and Power-sharing have been tried. Both have failed. Total integration is a worthy idea. But sadly it is a total illusion. Let's face facts: The British State will never give us integration, but they cannot stop us taking our independence. Only through Independence will we be in a position to defeat terrorism, halt sectarianism and rebuild our beloved Nation.

Once again, National Front News says: KICK OUT THE UNIONIST POLITICIANS! INDEPENDENCE FOR ULSTER NOW!

NF NEWS - MAY 1986. We warned about the sellout.

AT LAST

THE ONLY good thing to come from the IRA's repulsive Remembrance Day bombing in Enniskillen was the fact that it finally moved the Catholic Church in Ireland to make an outright condemnation of Fenian violence.

The statement, from the Standing Conference of Irish Catholic Bishops, was read from the pulpit at Mass throughout the island. It declared bluntly that it is sinful to join or support the IRA. As the Bishops made clear:

"In the face of the present campaign of Republican violence, the choice for all Catholics is clear. It is a choice between good and evil."

"It is sinful to join organizations committed to violence or to remain in them. It is sinful to support such organizations or to call on others to support them."

"There are people who store weapons or who willingly help fugitives to escape. We say very solemnly to these people that they share in the awful crime of murder."

BLUNT ATTACK

Such a blunt attack on the Marxist IRA by the leaders of the Irish Catholic Church is long overdue, but now that it has been made, traditionally anti-Catholic loyalists must give credit where it is due. A reciprocal gesture by the leaders of the Protestant majority could now begin the long process of reconciliation needed if the two communities are to overcome their old antagonisms and find a new shared loyalty to a non-sectarian independent Ulster.

Sadly, with "leaders" like Ian Paisley, this is unlikely. But there are still options open to the Catholic leadership to help heal the old divisions. They could make a direct appeal to the Pope to excommunicate the IRA and anyone who aids or abets its barbaric war of genocide against Ulster's loyalists. And they could discipline rebel priests who give dignity to the funerals of these murderous vermin.

IMPERIALIST

The Irish imperialist aggression of the IRA and Dublin, and the anti-Irish reaction which these produce in Ulster are not a matter of religion. If they appear to be, it is the result of self-seeking, cowardice and delusion among so many of the old leaders on both sides of the divide.

Their failure can only be overcome when the ordinary folk involved see the futility of this miniature European Brothers' War, and recognize that the only way to end it is to accept the Third Position principle that all peoples have the right to national self-determination — and that this includes the people of Ulster, as well as those of Eire and the other members of the British Family of Nations.

BECOME A FRIEND OF THE MOVEMENT

BRITAIN'S once beautiful countryside is being destroyed by industrial pollution and unhealthy 'get rich quick' farming techniques. What sort of environment are our children going to inherit?

This destruction is the inevitable result of a System which has made material wealth its God and instant profit its only morality. Only the National Front stands for a return to the spiritual health and economic sanity which can save our land.

F.O.M.

Yes! I'm prepared to back up the sacrifice of the NF's activists by doing something to change things for the better.

I wish to be registered as a Friend of the Movement and understand that by joining now I will be registered as an FOM for the rest of this year, as well as the whole of 1988. Please rush me my 1987 card straight away, and keep me informed of major developments within the National Front.

I am pleased to be able to help build the National Revolutionary movement in Britain, and enclose my registration fee of £10 (£6 for students, YTS, UB40s and pensioners).

SMALL IS BEAUTIFUL!

A wide range of the best thinkers and authors in the English language have in recent years published works which mirror many aspects of Revolutionary Nationalist thought.

Nowhere is this more true than in the area known broadly as 'Green.'

The books advertized here all fit into that category and are well worth reading. They are a bit more expensive than most of our stock, but why not treat a friend, relative – or yourself – for Christmas?

Small Is Beautiful. Schumacher.

In addressing himself to the plight and benefits of small businesses, Schumacher spoke to millions and coined a deservedly famous phrase.

£3.50 incl. p&p. Sb.

Good Work. Schumacher.

The author asks a vital question: what is the purpose of our work? He gives three answers: to produce necessary, useful goods; to enable us to use and perfect our skills, and, finally, to serve and cooperate with others in order to liberate ourselves from our inborn egocentricity. Thought provoking.

£7 incl. p&p. Hb.

Small Is Possible. George McRobie.

This book offers proof that in a wide range of human activities – in agriculture, industry and health care – for example; "small" is indeed possible. It details technologies and systems which have been devised on a human scale, are low in cost, sparing in their use of raw materials, and protective of nature.

£10 incl. p&p. Hb.

Back to the Land. Jan Marsh.

"Even as it happened, the transformation of England from an economy based on agriculture to one based on industry and commerce was being questioned. As the population of the new industrial centres increased, so did the problems of disease, squalor and poverty. By 1880, when industrialization had spread so far as to appear irreversible and the rural population was rapidly declining, the Back-to-the-Land movement began to pervade all areas of life and thought." A fascinating and wide-ranging book on the strong anti-urban feeling in our intellectual tradition.

£15 incl. p&p. Hb.

Green Politics. Capra and Spretnak.

The authors outline, incisively and clearly, the problems and issues before the Greens and show their relevance to the wider world.
